

Mark Georgiades

Havana Florida based artist, Mark Georgiades has been honing his skills as a sculptor and a painter for many years. He blends his skills as a mechanic and his love of art to create his welded metal sculpture. Mark works with steel, copper and aluminum which is welded together to form his unique structure. Mark's inspiration comes from nature and fantasy. He likes to create edgy work, usually distorting the size and proportion of his subjects. Mark uses color and the illusion of motion to create "mood" within his sculptures.

While Mark has always been involved in his art to some extent in the past, he has been focusing primarily on his art since 2014.
