

Gregg Gleason

Gregg retired from the State University System of Florida and Florida State University in 2008, having worked in higher education for over thirty years. He has enjoyed the photographic process since he was a teenager, particularly the recording images of the natural world, as well as humankind's interaction with that world.